Provincial park in Tatamagouche, N.S.

Unique/improvised picnic spot – a stump behind Ossie’s Take Out near St. George, N.B.

Enjoying a picnic in Wallace, N.S. from my colorful brown bag lunch items from home

Picnic on the lawn at Kathy Ames' house in Mactaquac, N.B.

A favorite lunch spot – The Caves Restaurant in St. Martins. We love it for the seafood, the great view and the sound of the waves as lunch is enjoyed.

As I picnicked at low tide behind the Block House in St. Andrews, N.B., some hungry sea gulls joined me on my rock for a taste of my lunch.

I took Ann Porter (16 in August) on some Motor Maid outings around N.B. during May and June. She is very impressed with the ladies in our group and their bikes.

I thought the fire pit area in front of the beautiful Algonquin Hotel in St. Andrews, N.B. made a fine spot for a snack from home. I love the flowers all around the hotel.

I was happy to find this port-a-pottie while waiting for the ferry to Country Harbour, N.S.

A wooden outhouse in Tatamagouche Park, N.S.

I considered this an unusual washroom as you can have more than one 'customer' doing something at the same time. Need I say more? You can find this washroom in the 45th Parallel Restaurant on Deer Island, N.B.

A fantastic group enjoying the unique scenery from Deer Island Point Park, N.B.

A unique/improvised picnic spot near Sonora, N.S.

Enjoying my brown bag lunch (tuna sandwiches, fruit) from home at a nice picnic area in Tor Bay, N.S.

It was just a snack of treats, not lunch, that we had chez Jo Miller as we social distanced in her driveway

Enjoying lunch at Evandale, N.B. – one of my favorite lunch spots.

These ducks decided to join our group as we enjoyed some ice cream at MacKinnon's Campground in Whycomomagh, N.S. (near Nancy Johnson's camp)

Our N.B. Motor Maid outing to the scenic Fundy Trail on this day included three 'non members'.

This beautiful, scenic spot at Cape George is an ideal location for a picnic

This port-a-pottie is fancied up a bit with 'walls' and lattice work on each side of it. It is situated by the waiting line for the ferry leaving Deer Island, N.B.

Kathy Ames and I found this wooden washroom when we stopped for ice cream on route 105 in Bristol, N.B.

These two ferry washrooms are unique/unusual in that they have a height restriction of 68.5 inches. Super tall people – wait until you get to the island or the mainland!

Centennial Park in St. Andrews, N.B.

A unique/improvised picnic spot – on the ferry to Country Harbour, N.S. The ferry departs at specific times so I was sitting on it for a bit of time...perfect opportunity for a picnic from home.

My fellow travellers to the 2020 Isle Madame Getaway were going to throw food away upon departure. That's a no-no. I hauled it home and had a picnic along the way in Young's Cove, N.B. Thanks ladies!

In May when it was still pretty chilly for riding and many restaurants and washrooms were not open, Kathy Ames and I ventured to Juniper through Florenceville and down through Williamsburg. We did not go in the house at my parents but we ordered take out from a canteen in Stanley, retrieved orders for us and my parents wearing masks/sanitizing and then ate on my parents steps at a distance.

Masstown is a favorite spot for me. I love stopping in this location as it is colorful, has a lot to offer (groceries, picnic area, seafood, Tims, gas, etc.) and is a happening spot.

Another Motor Maid bike outing in N.B. when I took Ann Porter along with me to enjoy the day and the ladies. Here we were enjoying lunch at a picnic table by a take out in Chipman, N.B.

Enjoying ice cream, camaraderie and laughs at MacKinnon's Campground in Whycomomagh, N.S. (a nice scenic spot with a lake and lots of beautiful flowers)

This port-a-pottie sits by the ferry wait line in L'Etete, N.B. for passengers anxious to get to Deer Island.

Pretty little park near Sherbrooke, N.S. along a river

An improvised picnic spot – near the parking lot of a MacDonaldis in Sackville, N.S. Time for some brown bag lunch from home and ice water.

A little reflection of my brown bag lunch at a picnic table near Wallace, N.S.

One of my favorite lunch areas – Mother Webbs in Antigonish, N.S.

Ann Porter (non motor maid) riding with me in Maugerville, N.B.

A scenic spot to enjoy a picnic of chicken from home in Saint Andrews, N.B.

Port-a-pottie near a unique (train cars) take out in Bagdad, N.B.

Caribou Provincial park in N.S.

One of my favorite places to have lunch/snacks – McKay’s Blueberries in Pennfield, N.B.

Beautiful Odell Park in Fredericton, N.B.

Cape George Point day park in Cape George, N.S.
